The Experience

Literacy improvement begins with connection and clarity. When leaders share an understanding of effective literacy instruction, they can create the alignment and consistency needed to improve outcomes for every student.

Level-Up Literacy Leadership Coaching is a semester-long online experience designed to bring literacy leaders together to create space for connection, to strengthen leadership practice, develop sustainable systems and create meaningful literacy improvement across their schools.

Through live online professional learning, practical resources, collaborative discussions and implementation support, you'll gain the guidance and evidence-informed tools to clarify effective literacy instruction, lead with confidence and develop a ready-to-launch literacy plan for 2027.

"Through working with Amanda, I realised that a coaching approach to middle leadership aligns perfectly with my values. In coaching sessions, Amanda demonstrates how to provoke deep reflection, guides through strategic questioning and seeks to understand the school's context and vision. She willingly shares her own knowledge and experience to support and guide you in achieving your literacy goals. Through Amanda's guidance, I am beginning to use these coaching principles, and have been able to lead new learning, and whole school change, in a way that empowers teachers."

“That’s the thing about great leaders- they see something in us that we don’t see in ourselves...yet!”
